Having whetted her appetite for the world of state attorneys general as a law clerk in Cozen O'Connor's State AG practice, Emily deepened her knowledge of the functions and authority of AGs in the Arkansas Attorney General's Office, where she worked in the Office of the Solicitor General for a year. There, she gained experience writing state Supreme Court and multistate amicus briefs, as well as participating in federal district court proceedings.

In addition to her experience in the Arkansas AG's office, Emily has worked as a judicial clerk for several judges, including the Honorable Chief Judge Lavenski R. Smith in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit and the Honorable Judge Brian S. Miller in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Arkansas.

Experience

Won a motion to dismiss in a case brought under the Illinois False Claims Act in which plaintiffs alleged that the client violated the law by causing authorized retailers of certain phone devices to fail to collect and pay to the State Department of Revenue an Illinois-specific sales tax on a charge for setting up the devices at the time of purchase.

Assisted with the negotiation of a multistate attorney general settlement for a vehicle retailer, establishing a new industry standard aligned with the client's longstanding practices.
