Kelli concentrates her practice on employment and family-based immigration. Most recently, Kelli was a senior business immigration law clerk with Cozen O'Connor's Immigration practice group. She also brings over a decade of experience as an immigration paralegal handling a high volume of cases. As a paralegal, Kelli gained valuable experience conducting research, preparing petitions, and filing responses on behalf of the firm's corporate and individual clients. Specifically, she has experience providing nonimmigrant and immigrant case management for clients, including preparation and filing of H-1B, L-1, E-2, TN, O-1, PERM, I-140, Adjustment of Status, and Requests For Evidence.

Kelli earned her law degree, cum laude, from Delaware Law School, where she was ranked second in her graduating class and received the George B. Lindsay Foundation Award for Legal Research and Writing. She earned her B.S. in legal studies and her M.S. in fraud investigation from Stevenson University.
