Jacqueline focuses her practice on commercial litigation. Prior to joining the firm as an associate, Jacqueline participated in the Cozen O'Connor Summer Associate Program, where she conducted legal research and assisted in drafting motions and other legal memoranda for several of the firm's litigation and transactional teams.

During her 3L year, she served as a judicial extern for the Honorable Cheryl Ann Krause, U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, where she drafted advisory memoranda and non-precedential opinions on criminal justice sentencing and civil appeals. Jacqueline also interned for the Honorable Richard A. Lloret, U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, where she conducted legal research.

Jacqueline earned her law degree, summa cum laude, from Temple University Beasley School of Law, where she was a staff editor and note/comment editor of the Temple Law Review and a member of the Systemic Justice Project at Temple's Sheller Center for Social Justice. She earned her undergraduate degree, summa cum laude, from Loyola University Maryland.

Experience

Won summary judgment in a case centered on claims brought against our client's insured by an employee of temp agency who was injured on the job at the insured's facility. The plaintiff filed a workers' compensation claim with the temp agency, received those benefits, and then asserted negligence and gross negligence claims against the insured. In granting summary judgment, the court agreed with our argument that a special provision of the Texas Labor Code made the exclusive remedy of the Texas Workers' Compensation Act applicable to temps like the plaintiff and barred her claims.
