

Competition Bureau Probes Alleged Anticompetitive Conduct by Loblaws, Sobeys Owners

Friday, May 24, 2024

Michael Osborne was quoted in a CTV News article discussing the Canada Competition Bureau's investigations into the parent companies of grocery store chains Loblaws and Sobeys, alleging that their property controls limit retail grocery competition. "This is a novel case," said Michael. According to him, previous cases alleging abuse of dominance involved companies with significantly more market power than George Weston or Empire have individually.

To read the full article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Antitrust & Competition
- Commercial Litigation