

Illinois Biometric Privacy Cases To Watch In 2nd Half Of 2021

Thursday, July 8, 2021

Melissa Siebert was quoted in a Law360 article discussing the biometric privacy litigation in Illinois that could be significantly altered due to pending state and federal cases considering the timing of claims under the state's landmark statute. "Illinois Appellate Courts in the First and Third districts are both considering a "novel question" of BIPA law," said Melissa. "If that statute of limitations is narrowed, it can significantly reduce the number of BIPA cases overall, as many are brought by employees who haven't worked at the company in question for a number of years."

To read the full article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Technology, Privacy & Data Security