

Some Employers Still Require COVID-19 Vaccines

Tuesday, November 8, 2022

David Barron was quoted in SHRM discussing employers requiring COVID-19 vaccination for employees. "The tight labor market may dissuade some employers from returning to mandatory vaccination policies," said David. "If the pandemic returns in force this winter, we could see increasing pressure on employers to close offices and reinstate strict safety protocols," he stated.

To read more of this article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Labor & Employment