

Private Equity

Cozen O'Connor's national Private Equity Group brings together all the legal disciplines necessary to represent private equity funds and their sponsors throughout the life cycle of a fund, including fund structuring; global tax; ERISA and SEC regulation and compliance; mergers and acquisitions; debt financing; corporate governance; and bankruptcy. Our team of experienced attorneys includes former in-house attorneys at private and public companies and a private equity firm, as well as former regulators. Our attorneys have served as counsel to private equity funds in connection with fund formation, private placements and investor subscriptions, deal structuring, deal financing and portfolio company investment, acquisition, and disposition. We also provide a full range of legal services to individual portfolio companies, including corporate governance, employee compensation, commercial contracts, real estate, compliance, and taxation, informed by a sophisticated appreciation of the sponsors' interests and priorities. Like Cozen O'Connor's private equity clients, our private equity attorneys are entrepreneurial, relationship-driven, hard-working, and sensitive to the needs of the deal. We view ourselves as partners with the clients we represent.

Cozen O'Connor has become a go-to firm for top lateral recruits and, with 33 offices across two continents, has an international reach. Our private equity attorneys have experience handling investments in Europe, China, India, Latin America, Canada, and the Middle East.

One characteristic that distinguishes Cozen O'Connor is our impressive track record serving middle-market firms. The middle market is growing faster, producing more jobs, and attracting more capital than any other segment of the U.S. economy. As a result, middle-market companies deserve top private equity attorneys who understand their potential, are attuned to their specific needs and challenges, and are willing to make a long-term commitment to their growth.

Cozen O'Connor's Private Equity Group also differentiates itself through its staffing method, which rejects the high-leverage model used by most large law firms. Instead of forcing our most seasoned attorneys to supervise large teams of inexperienced associates, our private equity experts actually practice law. Two results consistently occur when veteran lawyers are directly involved in every aspect of the work: projects are completed more efficiently because there is less need for review and revision, and representation is more sophisticated because it is handled by counsel who have a nuanced understanding of the legal and business imperatives.
